

The United Nations Security Council has primary responsibility, under the Charter, for the maintenance of international peace and security. When the Security Council approaches the final stage of negotiation of a draft resolution the text is printed in blue. What's In Blue is a series of insights on evolving Security Council actions.

The insights supplement the Monthly Forecasts and other reports and are designed to help interested UN readers keep up with what might soon be "in blue". They are sorted by date and category, and are updated daily

Visit the website