 @CineONU

In order to build resilience to the 21st threat of emerging infectious diseases, we're joining the public with key stakeholders of public health: healthcare workers, scientists, businesses, NGOs and government. Together we will:

- share valuable information that activates healthy families and communities
- promote messages of #onehealth to address infectious diseases at their ecological sources
- assemble critical support for healthcare workers on the frontlines of global health
- mobilize leaders around the world to align to shared preparedness goals

As we raise awareness about the threat of infectious diseases through our film, Unseen Enemy, we're making it easy for audiences to respond and be part of a more resilient world.

Deutsche Stiftung Weltbevölkerung (DSW) is a global development organisation that focuses on the needs and potential of the largest youth generation in history. We are committed to creating demand for and access to health information, services, supplies, and economic empowerment for youth. We achieve this by engaging in advocacy, capacity development, and reproductive health initiatives, so that young people are empowered to lead healthy and self-determined lives. With our headquarters in Hannover, Germany, DSW operates two liaison offices in Berlin and Brussels, as well as maintaining a strong presence in Ethiopia, Kenya, Tanzania, and Uganda.
